

The image is a traditional Indian miniature painting. It features a central scene of a white elephant with a yellow and orange patterned saddle, standing in a lush garden. The elephant is facing left. The garden is filled with various flowers, including large orange and red blossoms, and green foliage. The scene is framed by a dark red background within an ornate, golden archway. The archway is decorated with intricate floral and geometric patterns. The entire composition is enclosed in a wide, decorative border with a repeating floral motif in shades of gold, red, and green.
